

Biden Orders Federal Government to Achieve Net Zero by 2050

Posted by Mark Segal | Dec 9, 2021 | Energy Transition, Environment, Government | 0 🗨️ | ★★★★★

President Biden signed a new executive order on Wednesday, outlining a series of goals and initiatives for the U.S. federal government to achieve net zero emissions by 2050. The order mandates major interim and long-term actions across the government's buildings, vehicle fleets, procurement activities and operations.

President Biden ✓ @POTUS
United States government official

Today, I signed an executive order directing the federal government to achieve net-zero emissions by 2050.

5:23 PM · Dec 8, 2021

