Entrex Carbon Market confirms Taxation clarity for Carbon Offset Rights Agreements from Secretary Yellen

Boca Raton, Fla., October 1, 2021: Entrex (OTC:UNSS) announces a formal request to Secretary of Treasury Janet Yellen to confirm taxation clarity for Entrex's Carbon Offset Rights Agreements.

"Our tax counsel has reviewed Carbon Offset Rights Agreements and believes they will be managed pursuant to existing 'Mineral Rights Agreements' which can experience real estate or securities taxation" said Stephen H. Watkins, CEO of Entrex Carbon Market a majority owned subsidiary of Entrex.

"As we start managing a series of properties utilizing our Carbon Offset Rights Agreements it made sense to reach out to Secretary Yellen to confirm our Counsel's review" he continued.

"To say we're fielding inquiries regarding Entrex's Carbon Offset Rights Agreements is an understatement" said Thomas Harblin, partner in the Entrex Carbon Market. "It seems land owners are seeing rich rewards for this whole new asset they can monetize from their land holdings - and investors looking for real estate backed yield certainly are respectful of asset backed cash-flow".

"The response from real estate owners has been overwhelming" said Paul Landrew, Chairman of UNSS the public parent of Entrex Carbon Market. "Our team is working with brokers and their clients who are all trying to maximize the value of their real estate ownership through Carbon Offset Rights Agreements".

Subject: Carbon Offset Rights Agreements

Madam Secretary:

The Entrex Carbon Market offers a regulatory compliant market for corporations to purchase registered carbon offsets to support their carbon neutrality goals.

In an effort to support President Biden's environmental initiatives Entrex has created a standardized real estate "Carbon Offsets Rights Agreement". With the advent of the Entrex Carbon Offset Rights Agreement, landowners now possess three distinct titleable assets: the land title, the mineral rights title and now the carbon offset rights title.

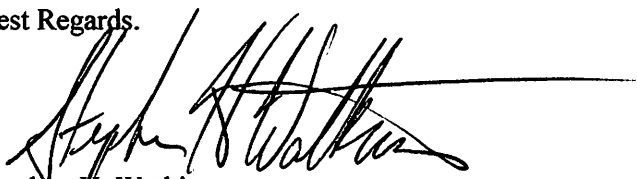

In discussions with our tax counsel, we believe taxation of these carbon offsets could be construed both as real estate and securities and associated capital gains taxation. In the absence of any official guidance, counsel understands that Carbon Offset Rights Agreements would be taxed in a similar fashion to:

Real Estate: An Entrex Carbon Offset Rights Agreement could be treated as a real estate asset with income treated as a capital gain/loss pursuant to a real estate asset. At the same time, the Entrex Carbon Offset Rights Agreement could then be managed similarly to a Section 1031 "like kind exchange" of "Income Producing Real Estate" and would compare to cash-flowing triple-net leased real estate assets or in this case an "Income Producing Carbon Offset Real Estate" asset.

Securities: An Entrex Carbon Offset Rights Agreement sold and/or invested as a security would be taxed similarly to a traditional cash-flowing security. Similar to a securities portfolio with associated gains and losses, Entrex Carbon Offset Rights Agreement Securities could be taxed as a typical short- or long-term capital gain within a portfolio.

Through our Entrex Carbon Offset Rights Agreement we hope to support the Administration's focus on the environment – and the growth of the environmental sector. We believe offering taxation clarity will allow institutional scale. If you believe our Counsel's interpretation of taxation requires additional review and/or discussion with Treasury, please provide us the appropriate contact for discussion.

Best Regards,

Stephen H. Watkins
